MEMORANDUM FOR: See Distribution

FROM: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT: Executive Driver Positions

REFERENCE: Director of Logistics' Memorandum, dtd 27 April 78

1. In 1976, as part of the budget exercise, the Office of Logistics was directed to eliminate the dedicated driver positions for the Directorate deputies. However, that service was never discontinued and by 1978 the service increased to ten despite the existence of only three slots.

2. The Office of Logistics has been in an overceiling status and now has additional courier position requirements. They have requested additional positions in the 1980 program but have not requested sufficient positions to meet all of the existing dedicated driver requirements. I am not optimistic that OL can be given ceiling relief in the ranking of 1980 position requirements nor am I satisfied with their current slot situation regarding dedicated drivers. It is not reasonable to continue providing a service for which the resources were eliminated by formal Agency decision.

3. In order to relieve the current driver slot problem, I am releasing the Office of Logistics of the responsibility for providing dedicated drivers with three exceptions, specifically, the DCI, the DDCI, and OLC. Functional Deputy Directors (and others as appropriate) have the option of providing positions from their current ceiling for dedicated drivers, or, alternatively, relying on the Central Motor Pool for their transportation needs.
